

The diagram illustrates the layout of a book spread with four distinct lines: a top fold line (green), an inner safety line (blue), an outer flap line (green), and a bottom bleed line (black). Arrows point from each line to its corresponding text label. The top fold line is at the very top, followed by the blue safety line. The green flap line is below the safety line, and the black bleed line is at the bottom. The central area between the safety and flap lines is the main content area.
